The crypto market has yet again slowed down and the market sentiment has been fearful over the last month. But the market sentiments have been improving over the last couple of weeks. After Bitcoin and Ethereum encountered a huge dip due to rough market conditions, they have been stable over the last couple of weeks and is currently trading above $38,000 and $2,800 respectively.

Alongside Bitcoin and Ethereum, the NFT market has seen sky-rocketing sales in November. As compared to 2020, the NFT sales have already increased to 25 folds.
